A Dead Man Comes to Life and Drives
His Sister Crazy.

Such is the story which comes from Indiana. Charles Hueston, of Monroe-ville, was attacked with congestion of the lungs, the other day, and, after two hours of unconsciousness, was pronounced dead. His relatives were summoned from Forest, Ohio, and the remains were placed on board a train for removal to the latter place, his sister insisting upon riding in the express car, to be close to the body of him she loved. It was nearly an hour before the train arrived at Forest, when a loud, unearthly shriek was heard, and in a second the young girl was prostrate upon the floor in a swoon. Several persons hastened to her rescue, when they, too, were nearly paralyzed at the discovery of the cause of her singular conduct. The supposed corpse of Charles Hueston was living, moving and breathing. The head was thrust above the coffin, and the face, with its deadly pallor, presented a weird and ghastly spectacle. The young man was evidently amazed at his surroundings, and the first returning gleams of consciousness found him in a position of bewilderedment. Hueston was taken from his coffin, restoratives applied under the direction of physicians who were on the train, and, when he reached Forest, he was removed to his father's residence.
At last accounts he was alive, and, although very ill, was improving somewhat and hope was entertained that he would completely recover. But his sister has not had one moment of consciousness since the wild shriek which she gave in the car at the dreadful spectacle which met her eyes, and it is feared that her reason is permanently destroyed by the shock.

Relics of the Pilgrim Fathers.

[From the Boston Globe.]

The following relics of the first settlement of the colony have been temporarily deposited in Pilgrim Hall at Plymouth, and prove a great addition to the already large collection of distinctively pilgrim relics in that place. A cradle belonging to Governor Edward Winslow, two pewter platters and a mortar of bell metal with an iron pestle, all of the same ownership. The cradle is of basket work, wrought in an elaborate pattern, is somewhat shorter than those of a later date and bears marks of constant usage. It derives additional interest from the fact that Peregrine White, the first white child born in the colony, was rocked in it. His birth, which took place in the latter part of November, 1620, on board the Mayflower, in Cape Cod harbor, was shortly followed by the death of his father in the early part of 1621, and his mother, Susanna White, was married to Governor Winslow on the 12th of May, 1621. The large pewter platter is twenty-two and one-half inches in diameter, and is stamped with the name of the blackman, of London, as maker. The smaller is twenty inches in diameter, and bears the imprint of John Shorey, also of London.
The mortar is of bell metal, surrounded by rows of gargoyles and ornamental work. The articles were in the possession of Miss Jane Sever, of Kingston, recently deceased.

GENTLE RULE.—The Mormons of Tooele county are so well pleased with the administration of public affairs there that many of them have already declared for the re-election of the present county officials. They say that never before have public improvements been made in an honest, business-like manner; never before have the people been invited to know how their money was being expended, or were even allowed to examine the public records. Of course they are only just beginning to learn that these are rights which every American citizen is entitled to, and are accorded to all outside of Utah. After a few years of honest Gentile rule in Tooele county, the Mormon portion of the community will become so thoroughly Americanized that it will be impossible for the priesthood to misgovern them, or in the least way control civil affairs there. In short, the union of Church and State in that county is effectually, and, let us trust, forever broken, as is evinced by the conviction on the part of the Mormons that the supremacy of Gentile rule does not mean the extermination of Mormons.

A coast exchange has the following:
"Utah is ahead in some respects. In the southern section of that Territory they have recently found geese eggs that assayed $3,000 per ton in silver. One nest filled with eggs in a petrified state, all assayed largely in silver, is creating much excitement."

A mountain in Switzerland gives back an echo forty-nine times. That's in answer to a woman's voice, but when a man puts in his lip, it only answers twice.

Father Bollig, the new custodian of the Vatican Basilica at Rome, is said to be the master of fifty-two languages.
